The Department of English acquaints students with a wide range of British and American literature from a variety of perspectives. The department teaches students to read literary texts and to write effectively and persuasively about literature and its relation to tradition, culture, history, and experience. English courses also share the goal of helping students read, think, speak, and write critically.

The department has a strong commitment to the teaching of writing in its literature courses. In addition, courses in creative writing provide an opportunity for majors interested in writing poetry and fiction to develop their skills to an advanced level. Some of the creative writing courses also satisfy Lewis & Clark's creative arts requirement (http://docs.lclark.edu/undergraduate/graduationrequirements/generaleducation/#creative_artstext).

Resources for Nonmajors

All of the departments course offerings are open to nonmajors except the senior seminar. Preference is given to majors and minors for enrollment in ENG 205 Major Periods and Issues in English Literature and ENG 206 Major Periods and Issues in English Literature.

The Major Program

Students are encouraged to declare the major in the sophomore year. The department requires that students interested in an English major take ENG 205 Major Periods and Issues in English Literature and ENG 206 Major Periods and Issues in English Literature in the sophomore year; if possible, and no later than the junior year. During this sequence and in close consultation with an advisor, students should chart a program of study that will satisfy major requirements.

During the fall semester of their senior year majors take the senior seminar. Though seminars vary in focus and content, each addresses its subject in the context of current critical discourse and requires students to write a long research-based paper. Each seminar gives students the experience of engaging in advanced research, developing independent critical perspectives, and sharing ideas with a small number of students in a seminar setting.

Within the major itself, students may shape their program in a number of ways. A concentration in writing and literature incorporates both creative writing courses and literature courses appropriate to a particular student's interest. A concentration in British and American literature combines courses calculated to strengthen the student's understanding of literary history and the major writers in British and American literature. These concentrations indicate two of the emphases possible within the English curriculum, though they are not intended as binding tracks. On the contrary, students are urged to work out a major concentration that best suits their individual interests.

Major Requirements

A minimum of 40 semester credits (10 courses), including the following:

- ENG 205 Major Periods and Issues in English Literature
- ENG 206 Major Periods and Issues in English Literature
- At least four courses at the 300 level or higher. Two must be in British literature before 1800 and one must be in American literature. When the subject matter is appropriate, and may be applied to either requirement. You may apply either ENG 331 or ENG 332 to the British pre-1800 requirement, but you may not apply both.

British Literature Before 1800

- ENG 310 The Middle English Period
- ENG 311 Literature of the English Renaissance
- ENG 312 The Early English Novel
- ENG 313 Restoration and 18th-Century Literature
- ENG 330 Chaucer
- ENG 331 Shakespeare: Early Works
- ENG 332 Shakespeare: Later Works

American Literature

- ENG 320 Early American Literature
- ENG 321 Pre-Civil War American Literature
- ENG 322 Post-Civil War American Literature
- ENG 323 Modern American Literature, 1900 to World War II
- ENG 324 Modern American Literature, Post-World War II
- ENG 326 African American Literature
- Any three English elective courses except ENG 244 Practicum, ENG 444 Practicum, and ENG 499 Independent Study

Minor Requirements

A minimum of 24 semester credits (six courses), including the following:

• One departmental core course, chosen from the following:
  - ENG 205 Major Periods and Issues in English Literature
  - ENG 206 Major Periods and Issues in English Literature

• One 300-level course in English or American literature.

• Four elective courses at the 200 level or higher, including creative writing courses.

Honors

Honors will be awarded by the department to students who produce an outstanding senior thesis. The thesis, to be completed in the spring of the senior year, is a revision and expansion of a fall senior seminar paper. Students are invited to propose an honors thesis project if they have done exceptional work in the senior seminar and have a GPA of 3.500 or above in the major. Thesis proposals are due shortly after the end of the fall semester. If the proposal is approved by the department, the student will work with an honors committee, submit the finished thesis to the department for approval, and present a summary of the thesis at a departmental forum.

Faculty

Andrea Hibbard. Adjunct professor of humanities. Victorian literature and culture, law and literature, women’s studies.
