Administrative Coordinator: Debbie Richman

The Department of History seeks to ground students in the foundations of the human experience. It introduces them to cause-and-effect relationships in human affairs, and encourages them to understand the power and the complexity of the past in shaping the contemporary human condition. Departmental courses probe American, Latin American, Middle Eastern, European, and Asian history and address such topics as popular culture; the nature of ideology; social and political change; economic systems; migration; and the roles of race, gender, religion, and ethnicity.

The department stresses the use of primary sources and endeavors to hone students skills in research methods, writing, and historical analysis. Students are expected to bring these skills to bear as they discuss and interpret the past.

Resources for Nonmajors

All of the departments course offerings are open to nonmajors. Preference is given to majors and minors for enrollment in HIST 300 Historical Materials, HIST 400 Reading Colloquium, and HIST 450 History Seminar.

The Major Program

The department curriculum focuses on three primary geographical fields: the Americas, Asia, and Europe. Students are strongly encouraged to enroll in the introductory sequences as a foundation for more advanced study in these concentrations. History majors are required to complete some work in each of the three fields in order to obtain a breadth of historical understanding. Most introductory sequences are offered at the 100 level. The entry-level U.S. sequence (HIST 234A and HIST 234B) is offered at the 200 level and is open to first-year students.

The department counsels students to take courses in related fields of language, literature, fine arts, social sciences, and international affairs to deepen their understanding of their area of concentration.

Major Requirements

A minimum of 40 semester credits (10 courses), distributed as follows:

- HIST 300 Historical Materials
- HIST 400 Reading Colloquium
- HIST 450 History Seminar
- Seven other history courses. At least one must be in Asian history, one in European history, and one in the history of the Americas. At least one of the seven courses must be in premodern Asian, European, or Latin American history, or in religious studies:

  - HIST 110 Early East Asian History
  - HIST 120 Early European History
  - HIST 141 Colonial Latin American History
  - HIST 210 China’s Golden Age (Tang and Song)
  - HIST 221 Tudor and Stuart Britain, 1485 to 1688
  - HIST 227 Medieval Europe, 800 to 1400
  - HIST 259 India in the Age of Empire
  - HIST 320 Humanism in Renaissance Europe
  - HIST 324 Saints and Bureaucrats
  - RELS 251 Medieval Christianity
  - RELS 373 Reformations of the 16th Century

At least two of the seven courses must be at the 300/400 level, excluding HIST 300 Historical Materials and HIST 444 Practicum.

Students may apply a maximum of 4 semester credits from HIST 244/HIST 444 toward the major. HIST 218 Perspectives on the Vietnam War may be counted toward either the Asian or American history requirement.

The following courses may be used as electives for the major:

Economics

- ECON 255 Technology, Institutions, and Economic Growth
- ECON 256 The Industrial Revolution

Latin American Studies

- LAS 200 Latin American Cultural Studies

Religious Studies

- RELS 251 Medieval Christianity
- RELS 253 Religion in American History to the Civil War
- RELS 254 Religion in Modern America, 1865 to Present
- RELS 340 Women in American Religious History
- RELS 373 Reformations of the 16th Century
Minor Requirements

A minimum of 24 semester credits (six courses), distributed as follows:

- HIST 300 Historical Materials
- HIST 400 Reading Colloquium or HIST 450 History Seminar
- At least one course from any two of the departmental concentrations: Asian history, European history, and history of the Americas
- At least one course at the 300 level, excluding HIST 300 Historical Materials

Honors

Each year the department invites meritorious students with an overall GPA of at least 3.500 to participate in the honors program. Students choose a faculty member with whom they want to work on a research project. The program may involve a major paper based on primary source materials or an extensive review and evaluation of the secondary literature in a particular subject area. Students present the project to the department. Following an oral examination, the department determines whether to grant honors on graduation.

Practicum Program

Because history is useful in a variety of careers, the department encourages students in the junior or senior year to participate in a practicum. History practica have placed students in a variety of settings including the museum and library of the Oregon Historical Society (http://www.ohs.org/), publishing companies, land-use-planning agencies, historic preservation organizations, and other enterprises needing the skills of a person knowledgeable in the liberal arts and trained in history.

The practicum is usually an off-campus experience designed by the student in conjunction with an off-campus supervisor and a faculty supervisor according to departmental guidelines. Arrangements on and off campus must be made with the appropriate supervising persons in the semester prior to enrollment.
