Indigenous Ways of Knowing (IWOK) Courses

CORE 506 Displacement: Living and Learning in Native America
Content: Participants learn from the historic and contemporary experiences of the people indigenous to the United States. Drawing from essays, poetry, and short fiction, this course considers the implications of Native American experience for professionals in counseling and education.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

CORE 507 Maps of Return and Recovery: Native American Resilience
Content: With particular attention to the experiences of contemporary Native American people, supports exploration of the paths of resilience. Ways taken for returning and recovering are evident in the use of maps as a theme in contemporary Native American literature. Following this theme, the course involves imaginative and actual investigation of recovery and its maps—maps that are sometimes testimony, sometimes instruction, sometimes prophecy.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

CORE 508 Great Tribal Leaders of Modern Times
Content: Spanning the fields of Native American studies, multicultural studies, American history, political science, and sociology, this course focuses on video interviews of tribal leaders who have worked to preserve tribal self-determination, treaty rights, and the constitutionally protected status of sovereign governments. The leaders speak of federal policies from the 1940s to the present that altered and often destroyed tribal identities, such as those of the removal, termination, and assimilation eras.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

CPSY 518 Northwest Native History: Complicated Legacies
Content: This elective course is designed to introduce graduate students in Education, Counseling and Education Leadership to a sociopolitical history that demonstrates some of the factors contributing to the complex historical legacy of indigenous students in the United States.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 2 semester hours.

CPSY 521 Counseling Native American Communities
Content: Assists counselors in developing deep understanding and capacity for supporting the mental health of Native American individuals, families, and communities. Through careful consideration of the research bearing on contemporary Native American experience alongside stated concerns of regional and global indigenous leaders, this course will explore in detail the practices and sensibilities that support cultural and personal health.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 2 semester hours.

ED 522 Educating Native American Students
Content: This course is designed to introduce experienced teachers to a variety of factors that contribute to the educational success or failure of indigenous students in the United States and elsewhere. It will explore in detail innovative instructional practices that contribute to higher levels of student engagement and success.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 2 semester hours.

ED 572 Native American Sociopolitics: History and Effects
Content: This course is designed to introduce graduate students in education, counseling, and educational leadership to a sociopolitical history that demonstrates some of the factors contributing to the complex historical legacy of indigenous students in the United States.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 2 semester hours.
Oregon Writing Project Courses (on campus)

ED 539 Oregon Writing Project: Special Studies
Content: Oregon Writing Project courses focus on the teaching of writing. Writing is essential to success in school and the workplace. Yet writing is a skill that cannot be learned on the spot; it is complex and challenging. Our courses are taught with varying emphases based on grade level, content area, or specific genres. All of our courses help teach students to write in all subjects with clarity and style, seek deeper and more critical understanding of writing and the world, wake up their own voice and authority, take command of their own learning, and manage portfolios and other exhibition forms.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 2 semester hours.

ED 590 Oregon Writing Project: Teaching the Emergent K-2 Writer
Content: This practical, hands-on class is designed specifically for K-2 teachers. A key assumption of this course is that the best way to learn about writing is to write in a variety of modes and for a variety of purposes, and to reflect on the complex processes involved in that act. Participants can expect to write regularly. Low-stakes experiments in different genres, informal reading responses, and portfolio reflections will be part of the mix. Class members will learn how to find a rich variety of texts that provide their students with a clear vision of writing, they will discover how to strategically select texts to support whole-class learning as well as individual choice, and they will learn how to embed writing into their year-long curriculum. Participants will share ideas and draw on the experiences of their colleagues while taking away lessons and strategies directly applicable to the K-2 classroom.
Prerequisites: None.
Restrictions: Current employment, or on temporary leave, as a public or private school K-2 teacher.
Credits: 2 semester hours.

ED 591 Oregon Writing Project: Teacher Research
Content: In this practical, hands-on course, teachers will follow a question that has arisen out of their classroom practice about writing: a problem, an issue, a nagging concern. Teachers will also explore the work of other teacher researchers in the National Writing Project Network. This inquiry-centered approach will allow teachers to conduct research in their own classrooms as they develop their questions, plan their methodology, gather data and analyze their students’ writing.
Prerequisites: ED 592/ED 692, ED 594/ED 694.
Restrictions: Consent of instructor.
Credits: 2 semester hours.

ED 592 Oregon Writing Project: Workshop in Teaching Writing
Content: The four-week Invitational Summer Institute provides a supportive, dialogic environment in which to explore possibilities as writers, teachers and leaders. The theory and practice of writing are examined through individual demonstrations, reading and discussion of current research, and writing and sharing in writing response groups. Twenty-five K-12 participants develop their leadership potential for a variety of roles, including local school/district reform efforts that support the education and success of all of Oregon’s diverse student population. Social justice and social action undergird the experience in an attempt to embrace democratic ideals.
Prerequisites: None.
Corequisites: None.
Restrictions: Participants must submit an application and have an interview to be accepted into this program.
Credits: 7 semester hours.

ED 594 Oregon Writing Project: Practicum in Teaching Writing
Content: After the camaraderie of the Summer Institute, too often teachers return to the isolation of their classroom. But you can reclaim your institute community in the Saturday Seminars. Whether you long for the conviviality of teachers sharing stories or you miss a community of teacher-writers who seek to increase their students’ love for writing or ability to punctuate, you will find your needs in the Saturday Seminars. Saturday Seminars are a year-long series of 3-hour workshops facilitated by the OWP director and co-directors as well as OWP teacher consultants. This class will focus on practical classroom strategies and discussions that help develop students as writers as well as teachers as writers. Topics vary from session to session, but each will include time for writing and reflection as well as a framework or lesson to take back to the classroom.
Prerequisites: ED 592/ED 692.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

ED 596 Oregon Writing Project: Advanced Institute
Content: This course is part of a series of OWP courses for teachers interested in working as writing coaches in schools and districts. Participants will examine current research from writing and coaching fields to learn effective coaching practices, develop grade-level and content-level inservice workshops, practice presentation skills. Participants will engage in an individual inquiry to apply the principles they develop through the course to support local school and district reform efforts aimed at improving writing instruction for diverse learners.
Prerequisites: ED-592/ED-692, ED 594/ED 694.
Restrictions: Consent of instructor.
Credits: 2 semester hours.
ED 597 Oregon Writing Project: Writing for Publication
Content: This course is part of a series for OWP graduates interested in becoming writing coaches in schools/districts. Teachers will write narratives of school/teaching life, articles about theory and practice grounded in classroom lessons, opinion pieces about issues in the teaching of writing for publications. First class is a three-day writing retreat.
Prerequisites: ED 592/ED 692, ED 594/ED 694.
Restrictions: Consent of instructor.
Credits: 3 semester hours.

Oregon Writing Project Courses (off campus)
ED 639 Oregon Writing Project: Special Studies
Content: Oregon Writing Project courses focus on the teaching of writing. Writing is essential to success in school and the workplace. Yet writing is a skill that cannot be learned on the spot; it is complex and challenging. Our courses are taught with varying emphases based on grade level, content area, or specific genres. All of our courses help teach students to write in all subjects with clarity and style, seek deeper and more critical understanding of writing and the world, wake up their own voice and authority, take command of their own learning, manage portfolios and other exhibition forms.
Prerequisites: None.

Prerequisites: ED-592/ED-692.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.
ED 695 Oregon Writing Project: Writing in Schools: (Topic)
Content: Inquiry course designed to improve the teaching of writing. Participants examine and evaluate current research on writing instruction; they investigate writings from generation to revision and editing by participating in writing workshops themselves. Teachers also design a writing curriculum to take back to their classrooms. They keep reflective journals analyzing their students’ writing processes and products. Teachers deepen their understanding of the complexities of teaching, learning, and writing.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

ED 696 Oregon Writing Project: Advanced Institute
Content: This course is part of a series of OWP courses for teachers interested in working as writing coaches in schools and districts. Credits: 3 semester hours.

Writing and Creative Media Courses (on campus), offered through the Northwest Writing Institute

WCM 501 Introduction to Documentary Studies
Content: Documentary studies uses interdisciplinary frameworks and multiple modes of storytelling to explore individual lives and diverse cultures in the past and present. Students will examine the history and use of documentary work in the U.S., the ethics of fieldwork, and ways to convey the lives of others. Through analysis of film, photography, audio, and print journalism, participants will look at how documentary storytelling promotes human dignity and social justice and engages communities through collaborative projects. Students will create a proposal for a project documenting their families, students, clients, and/or members of another culture.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 502 Poetry
Content: Sometimes an idea, a story, a dream, a question or a bolt of memory longs to become a poem or song. In this workshop, we will celebrate the winsome habit of poetry to turn small discoveries into a set of rhythmic lines that say much in few words. We’ll read lively texts, start many lyric experiments, and talk along the way about how to share this quirky and welcoming way of writing with our students.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 504 Bearing Witness: Writing, Documentary Studies, Social Justice
Content: What is the writer’s, teacher’s, citizen’s, or counselor’s role in bearing witness? How do we observe, record, and interpret events from the everyday to the unspeakable? In this nonfiction workshop, we’ll explore a continuum of creative nonfiction including literary journalism, essay, and memoir. We’ll write from our own observations of cultural life, exploring ethical issues as well as style, voice, and literary form.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 506 Stafford Studies
Content: This course consists of reading, writing, discussion, and special projects growing from the poetry and prose of William Stafford. Using the resources of published books and the William Stafford Archives, participants practice inquiry into Stafford’s approach to writing, thinking, teaching, and witness for reconciliation, and from this inquiry develop their own approaches to writing, teaching, and witness.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 2 semester hours.
WCM 507 Essay
Content: What are essays, and why do we want to teach them? The essay form invites writers to express ideas of universal value in a personal voice. Participants will be introduced to writing and learning activities moving from exploratory writing to composing essays. Along the way, we will explore drafting, response to work in progress, keeping a reading and listening journal, and gathering our powers toward a sense of deep play in the writing of essays.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 508 Explorations in Graduate Writing
Content: For students in all programs, this course teaches forms and styles required in graduate study, and explores the context in which prospective teachers, counselors, and administrators learn by writing. It describes the writing process, reviews principles of clear writing, and acquaints students with the particular expectations for graduate level writing. We invite you to experience various forms inquiry may take as you compose individual response to the authority of knowledge in published texts.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 509 Revision
Content: Henry James described revision as a "re-dreaming." This workshop invites participants to suspend the notion of revision as editing, and practice revision as finding the story under the story, the poem within a poem, the hot heart of the essay. Revise a work-in-progress, or use writing generated from prompts in class, as we kindle what gives our writing breath and life.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 510 Memoir
Content: Writing chapters from one’s life story can produce gifts for family, and an important record of community life. In this workshop, we will read short passages from a variety of voices reflecting on lessons learned from life encounters and from interviews we conduct. We will use these passages as prompts for our own writing, leading to a gathering of short life chapters for further reflection and revision over time. No experience necessary, but a willing heart.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 511 Audio Postcards: Creativity, Compassion, Commitment
Content: Drawing on life experience, participants in this workshop will write profiles of personal heroes, encounters with other cultures, moments of creative discovery, and other compact experiences with indelible effects. From these short writings, we will select, deepen, and record our accounts for podcast, and other forms of web-based sharing.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 512 The Gift
Content: How do we maintain self and community in a society driven by market exchange? What are our cultural norms for gifts and reciprocity? How do gifts bind families and communities? How do we discover the "gift of labor," work that satisfies beyond financial compensation? What is the artist’s role in a consumer culture? These are among the questions posed by poet Lewis Hyde in his classic study of literary anthropology, The Gift. These are also the questions that motivate our exploration of gifts in this course. We take Hyde’s questions as springboards from which to launch our own investigation of culture, community, gift, story, and work.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 513 Field Notes: Observation and Reflection in the Natural World
Content: In a time of increasing attention to human responsibility for the Earth, we begin with the question for teachers and counselors: What are best connections to the natural world—for success as learners, and health as human beings? Writers, scientists, artists, educators, and counselors provide a rich array of responses. Participants will observe nature, begin to practice field notes, and consider opportunities in teaching and counseling practice to attend to right relation with the Earth.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 514 Writers in Danger
Content: This workshop engages the global perils of the writing life. In collaboration with the PEN Freedom to Write committee, we will examine the case files of international writers currently silenced or imprisoned, then advocate for the writer’s relief, and at the same time provide further research on the political conflicts underlying the writer’s predicament. These enhanced files are returned to PEN to further the work of monitoring freedom of expression around the world.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 2 semester hours.

WCM 515 The Practice of Writing
Content: Trying our hands at a variety of experimental forms, we will bring our attention to events best told as stories, questions best explored as brief essays, discoveries and mysteries best told as poems, and other explorations of connection between what we have experienced and what we might say. This course is for writers interested in pushing their practice in multiple directions, and for teachers who want to engage the widest variety of student writers.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.
WCM 516 Telling Lives
Content: Which stories are ours to tell and which carry us into the terrain of others’ lives? Our own stories often intersect with those entrusted to us by family, friends, and strangers; all are shaped by the cultures we inhabit. In this workshop, we’ll explore biography, ethnography, journalistic portraits, and documentary writing. Our texts will include our own writing as well as works by various writers and practitioners in documentary inquiry.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 518 Storymaking I/II
Content: How do writers turn the stuff of life into rich and compelling stories? Whether we craft fiction or personal essays, we need the elements of storymaking: plot, character, point of view, dialogue, and narrative time. In addition to writing our stories, we will study short works by Hans Christian Andersen, Isaac Babel, John Berger, Anton Chekhov, Colette, Isak Dinesen, Katherine Mansfield and Edna O’Brien, in order to learn how they achieved their effects.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 2 semester hours.

WCM 519 Writing for Radio
Content: Radio commentaries bring individual voices to broad audiences, and join the concision of poetry to social and environmental concerns. In this workshop, we will write to a series of prompts at the intersection of personal and community life, and bring one short essay to production-ready qualities of clarity, engagement, and brevity.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 2 semester hours.

WCM 520 Telling Your Story in Documentary Film
Content: Learn the basics of film production and create an original 5-10 minute documentary in this hands-on workshop. Under the guidance of award-winning filmmakers, students will team up to outline, shoot, and edit their own documentary shorts. This collaborative workshop is intended for first-time and intermediate filmmakers, and includes classes on story structure and production. Final projects will be screened at the Homegrown DocFest at the end of the term.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-1.5 semester hours.

WCM 522 Imaginative Writing Seminar: Works in Progress
Content: Open to graduate students and to writers, filmmakers, digital storytellers, and creators in other media, this seminar is a collaborative studio for completing creative work, which also serves as the capstone course for the Certificate in Documentary Studies. The seminar directs the energies of the seminar community in the development of individual works in progress, with reference to the best in contemporary writing and documentary expressions in other media.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 527 Fiction
Content: This workshop is for writers who want to explore or refine the craft of fiction writing in a nurturing and challenging environment. We will read short fiction and discuss different aspects of storytelling including conflict, plot, character development, atmosphere, point of view and dialogue. Works-in-progress will be developed through individual conferences with the instructor and in class-discussion.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 530 Daily Writing in the Spirit of William Stafford
Content: You don’t eat just once every few days. You don’t speak just every week or so. Learning is continuous, and hunger is closer to breathing than to an annual rite. So why not write daily? In this workshop, we will feed on examples from the daily writing of William Stafford, and practice in the spirit of his work. The emphasis will be on the process of creation: creating texts the length of poems but for use in multiple genres. The goal will be to know what it feels like—in the body and in acts of sustaining witness—to practice the continuous writing life you have imagined.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 531 Digital Storytelling
Content: How can teachers, counselors, and others tell stories from their work by combining word, image, and tune? This workshop is a studio experience to assist participants in designing and producing a three- to five-minute digital story that joins narrative, images, and music. Participants craft and record first-person narratives; collect still images, video, and music to deepen the narrative; and follow a process through peer response and instructor support to edit their stories.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.
WCM 532 Writing Culture
Content: What shapes our identities as members of a family, workplace, religious group, or nation? How do we learn the rules for how to act in unfamiliar cultures, and how do we write about that experience? In this workshop, we'll write to discover the unique patterns of our own cultural worlds as well as those we've entered through literature, travel, and everyday experience. We'll read contemporary nonfiction to explore different cultural perspectives and we'll examine issues of craft, including character development, voice, and literary form. The workshop may also involve fieldwork and documentation of Portland life.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 533 Speaking: Voice, Place, Kinship
Content: Why are speeches often boring, formal, flat? Where are the resonant stories that could drive an audience wild, and make them go forth changed? We will develop a personal "story bag" of experiences, sayings, family and professional lore, and other resources, and then sequence these riches for a speech of any length, an audience of any size or disposition. The only stage fright will be felt by your listeners: what will this character say next?
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 535 Cultural Journalism
Content: Based on community-based education as developed at the Foxfire Project in Georgia, this workshop will emphasize a project approach to teaching and learning. Educators will explore ways to fulfill and go beyond their mandated curriculum, and give students a voice in planning what happens in the classroom. In experiential education students make connections between work at school and the real world and produce a product valued by an audience outside the classroom.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 536 Visual Thinking
Content: We are visual creatures, taking pleasure in color and image, in sinuous line and tactile texture—but what is the role of language in our seeing, and how is our use of language enriched by our visual experience? This workshop, for teachers at all levels, will focus on the interplay between visual and verbal languages as a window to learning.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 540 Writing for ESL Students
Content: "What is different about here," said an immigrant of 15, "is how I must say things." The English language can be a great wall, a border hard to cross. For English language learners, writing can be the gate, the welcoming road. Recognizing that people achieve understanding as they write together, this class will explore activities that break down learning barriers and foster a sense of inclusion and expression.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 545 Exploring Life Stories: The Art of the Interview
Content: Writers, oral historians, ethnographers, teachers, counselors, and families recording their stories all rely on interviews. In this workshop, we'll learn the interviewer's skills: how to listen and observe, frame questions, index and transcribe. We'll write together to bring the interviews to life on the page. We'll examine individual and social memory as well as ethical and political issues. We'll also explore the use of interviews in community projects and as the foundation of documentary studies.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 546 Reading Other Voices
Content: This course will bring together graduate students and educators and counselors from the community to find ways to incorporate culturally sensitive texts in their work. We will draw from a variety of texts that address differences in race and culture such as Pam Munoz Ryan’s Esperanza Rising, Sandra Cisneros’s Woman Hollering Creek, Khaled Hosseini’s The Kite Runner, Sherman Alexie’s Ten Little Indians. We will write from our own cultural backgrounds to uncover how our worldview shapes the reading of works made unfamiliar by different notions of self and community, time, religious and social values. Reading and writing together, we will experience the richness and multiple dimensions of language itself.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 548 Healing Power of Story
Content: The hardest times in life can make you "voiceless," but also offer the greatest opportunity for stories. At these times the invitation to tell someone your story can be a critical encouragement in the healing process. As caregivers, teachers, counselors, parents, nurses, doctors, and patients, we will look at our own stories and those of others to practice strength and healing. Through writing, we will explore the uses of journals, fiction, essays, and poetry in the telling and receiving of stories.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.
WCM 574 Personal Voice in Professional Writing
Content: A workshop to explore the power of writing to engage diverse perspectives, ideas, and cultures at the restless boundary between personal insight and professional practice. In our search for equity, social justice, and inclusion, collaborative writing in professional life may be the most important writing we do. As educators our own writing is our best teacher, as counselors our written reflection will give us our best advice, and as leaders our work will be improved by writing about the challenges we face. To foster expressive clarity, the class as a writing community examines reading, collaboration, personal voice, critical thinking, and audience.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 576 Special Studies: Northwest Writing Institute
Content: This course uses writing as a tool for inquiry and creative expression. Taught with varying emphases based on the cultural moment, the course offers Graduate Students and community members practice with writing, and reflection on the chapters in a life, and investigates how the practice of writing can deepen vocation. Students write in a learning community, and share works in progress. Offered in varied formats—meeting weekends, monthly over two terms, or in a traditional structure—to meet the needs of adult learners.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 577 Writing and Creative Media Courses (off campus)
WCM 601 Introduction to Documentary Studies
Content: Documentary studies uses interdisciplinary frameworks and multiple modes of storytelling to explore individual lives and diverse cultures in the past and present. Students will examine the history and use of documentary work in the U.S., the ethics of fieldwork, and ways to convey the lives of others. Through analysis of film, photography, audio, and print journalism, participants will look at how documentary storytelling promotes human dignity and social justice and engages communities through collaborative projects. Credits: 1-2 semester hours.
WCM 610 Memoir
Content: Writing chapters from one’s life story can produce gifts for family, and an important record of community life. In this workshop, we will read short passages from a variety of voices reflecting on lessons learned from life encounters and from interviews we conduct. We will use these passages as prompts for our own writing, leading to a gathering of short life chapters for further reflection and revision over time. No experience necessary, but a willing heart.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 611 Audio Postcards: Creativity, Compassion, Commitment
Content: Drawing on life experience, participants in this workshop will write profiles of personal heroes, encounters with other cultures, moments of creative discovery, and other compact experiences with indelible effects. From these short writings, we will select, deepen, and record our accounts for podcast, and other forms of web-based sharing.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 612 The Gift
Content: How do we maintain self and community in a society driven by market exchange? What are our cultural norms for gifts and reciprocity? How do gifts bind families and communities? How do we discover the “gift of labor,” work that satisfies beyond financial compensation? What is the artist’s role in a consumer culture? These are among the questions posed by poet Lewis Hyde in his classic study of literary anthropology, The Gift. These are also the questions that motivate our exploration of gifts in this course. We take Hyde’s questions as springboards from which to launch our own investigation of culture, community, gift, story, and work.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 613 Field Notes: Observation and Reflection in the Natural World
Content: In a time of increasing attention to human responsibility for the Earth, we begin with the question for teachers and counselors: What are best connections to the natural world—for success as learners, and health as human beings? Writers, scientists, artists, educators, and counselors provide a rich array of responses. Participants will observe nature, begin to practice field notes, and consider opportunities in teaching and counseling practice to attend to right relation with the Earth.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 614 Writers in Danger
Content: This workshop engages the global perils of the writing life. In collaboration with the PEN Freedom to Write committee, we will examine the case files of international writers currently silenced or imprisoned, then advocate for the writer’s relief, and at the same time provide further research on the political conflicts underlying the writer’s predicament. These enhanced files are returned to PEN to further the work of monitoring freedom of expression around the world.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 2 semester hours.

WCM 615 The Practice of Writing
Content: Trying our hands at a variety of experimental forms, we will bring our attention to events best told as stories, questions best explored as brief essays, discoveries and mysteries best told as poems, and other explorations of connection between what we have experienced and what we might say. This course is for writers interested in pushing their practice in multiple directions, and for teachers who want to engage the widest variety of student writers.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 616 Telling Lives
Content: Which stories are ours to tell and which carry us into the terrain of others’ lives? Our own stories often intersect with those entrusted to us by family, friends, and strangers; all are shaped by the cultures we inhabit. In this workshop, we’ll explore biography, ethnography, journalistic portraits, and documentary writing. Our texts will include our own writing as well as works by various writers and practitioners in documentary inquiry.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 618 Storymaking I/II
Content: How do writers turn the stuff of life into rich and compelling stories? Whether we craft fiction or personal essays, we need the elements of storymaking: plot, character, point of view, dialogue, and narrative time. In addition to writing our stories, we will study short works by Hans Christian Andersen, Isaac Babel, John Berger, Anton Chekhov, Colette, Isak Dinesen, Katherine Mansfield and Edna O’Brien, in order to learn how they achieved their effects.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 2 semester hours.

WCM 619 Writing for Radio
Content: Radio commentaries bring individual voices to broad audiences, and join the concision of poetry to social and environmental concerns. In this workshop, we will write to a series of prompts at the intersection of personal and community life, and bring one short essay to production-ready qualities of clarity, engagement, and brevity.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.
WCM 620 Telling Your Story in Documentary Film
Content: Learn the basics of film production and create an original 5-10 minute documentary in this hands-on workshop. Under the guidance of award-winning filmmakers, students will team up to outline, shoot, and edit their own documentary shorts. This collaborative workshop is intended for first-time and intermediate filmmakers, and includes classes on story structure and production. Final projects will be screened at the Homegrown DocFest at the end of the term.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-1.5 semester hours.

WCM 622 Imaginative Writing Seminar: Works in Progress
Content: Open to graduate students and to writers, filmmakers, digital storytellers, and creators in other media, this seminar is a collaborative studio for completing creative work, which also serves as the capstone course for the Certificate in Documentary Studies. The seminar directs the energies of the seminar community in the development of individual works in progress, with reference to the best in contemporary writing and documentary expressions in other media.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 627 Fiction
Content: This workshop is for writers who want to explore or refine the craft of fiction writing in a nurturing and challenging environment. We will read short fiction and discuss different aspects of storytelling including conflict, plot, character development, atmosphere, point of view, and dialogue. Works-in-progress will be developed through individual conferences with the instructor and in class-discussion.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 630 Daily Writing in the Spirit of William Stafford
Content: You don’t eat just once every few days. You don’t speak just every week or so. Learning is continuous, and hunger is closer to breathing than to an annual rite. So why not daily? In this workshop, we will feed on examples from the daily writing of William Stafford, and practice in the spirit of his work. The emphasis will be on the process of creation: creating texts the length of poems but for use in multiple genres. The goal will be to know what it feels like—in the body and in acts of sustaining witness—to practice the continuous writing life you have imagined.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 631 Digital Storytelling
Content: How can teachers, counselors, and others tell stories from their work by combining word, image, and tune? This workshop is a studio experience to assist participants in designing and producing a three- to five-minute digital story that joins narrative, images, and music. Participants craft and record first-person narratives; collect still images, video, and music to deepen the narrative; and follow a process through peer response and instructor support to edit their stories.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 632 Writing Culture
Content: What shapes our identities as members of a family, workplace, religious group, or nation? How do we learn the rules for how to act in unfamiliar cultures, and how do we write about that experience? In this workshop, we’ll write to discover the unique patterns of our own cultural worlds as well those we’ve entered through literature, travel and everyday experience. We’ll read contemporary nonfiction to explore different cultural perspectives as well as issues of craft, including character, voice, and literary form. The workshop may also involve fieldwork and documentation of Portland life.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.

WCM 633 Speaking: Voice, Place, Kinship
Content: Why are speeches often boring, formal, flat? Where are the resonant stories that could drive an audience wild, and make them go forth changed? We will develop a personal "story bag" of experiences, sayings, family and professional lore, and other resources, and then sequence these riches for a speech of any length, an audience of any size or disposition. The only stage fright will be felt by your listeners: what will this character say next?
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 635 Cultural Journalism
Content: Based on community-based education as developed at the Foxfire Project in Georgia, this workshop will emphasize a project approach to teaching and learning. Educators will explore ways to fulfill and go beyond their mandated curriculum, and give students a voice in planning what happens in the classroom. In experiential education students make connections between work at school and the real world and produce a product valued by an audience outside the classroom.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.
WCM 636 Visual Thinking
Content: We are visual creatures, taking pleasure in color and image, in sinuous line and tactile texture—but what is the role of language in our seeing, and how is our use of language enriched by our visual experience? This workshop, for teachers at all levels, will focus on the interplay between visual and verbal languages as a window to learning.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 640 Writing for ESL Students
Content: "What is different about here," said an immigrant of 15, "is how I must say things." The English language can be a great wall, a border hard to cross. For English as a Second Language learners, writing can be the gate, the welcoming road. Recognizing that people achieve understanding as they write together, this class will explore activities that break down learning barriers and foster a sense of inclusion and expression.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 645 Exploring Life Stories: The Art of the Interview
Content: Writers, oral historians, ethnographers, teachers, counselors, and families recording their stories all rely on interviews. In this workshop, we’ll learn the interviewer’s skills: how to listen and observe, frame questions, index and transcribe. We’ll write together to bring the interviews to life on the page.
We’ll examine individual and social memory as well as ethical and political issues. We’ll also explore the use of interviews in community projects and as the foundation of documentary studies.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 646 Reading Other Voices
Content: This course will bring together graduate students and educators and counselors from the community to find ways to incorporate culturally sensitive texts in their work. We will draw from a variety of texts that address differences in race and culture such as Pam Munoz Ryan’s Esperanza Rising, Sandra Cisneros’s Woman Hollering Creek, Khaled Hosseini’s The Kite Runner, Sherman Alexie’s Ten Little Indians. We will write from our own cultural backgrounds to uncover how our worldview shapes the reading of works made unfamiliar by different notions of self and community, time, religious and social values. Reading and writing together, we will experience the richness and multiple dimensions of language itself.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 648 Healing Power of Story
Content: The hardest times in life can make you "voiceless," but also offer the greatest opportunity for stories. At these times the invitation to tell someone your story can be a critical encouragement in the healing process. As caregivers, teachers, counselors, parents, nurses, doctors, and patients, we will look at our own stories and those of others to practice strength and healing. Through writing, we will explore the uses of journals, fiction, essays, and poetry in the telling and receiving of stories.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 674 Personal Voice in Professional Writing
Content: A workshop to explore the power of writing to engage diverse perspectives, ideas, and cultures at the restless boundary between personal insight and professional practice. In our search for equity, social justice, and inclusion, collaborative writing in professional life may be the most important writing we do. As educators our own writing is our best teacher, as counselors our written reflections will give us our best advice, and as leaders our work will be improved by writing about the challenges we face. To foster expressive clarity, the class as a writing community examines reading, collaboration, personal voice, critical thinking, and audience.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1 semester hour.

WCM 676 Special Studies: Northwest Writing Institute
Content: This course uses writing as a tool for inquiry and creative expression. Taught with varying emphases based on the cultural moment, the course offers Graduate Students and community members practice with writing, and reflection on the chapters in a life, and investigates how the practice of writing can deepen vocation. Students write in a learning community, and share works in progress. Offered in varied formats—meeting weekends, monthly over two terms, or in a traditional structure—to meet the needs of adult learners.
Prerequisites: None.
Credits: 1-2 semester hours.
